Outreach & Inclusive Planning

PLAN OVERVIEW AND PROCESS

Larimer and Weld counties are expecting a lot of residential and economic growth over the next three decades. Our region needs a transportation system that can keep up, and our Regional Transportation Plan (RTP) will evaluate what that means.

During the 2050 RTP process, we'll take a look at current data like how many residents and jobs there are in Larimer and Weld counties, what our transportation network looks like, and what transportation projects are underway.

We'll then work with stakeholders and partner agencies to identify residential and economic growth and change, what transportation projects are needed to support these existing and new residents and jobs, and what funding is needed to pay for those projects.

Throughout the project, we'll check in with stakeholders, including our Technical Advisory Committee (TAC), Planning Council, Mobility Committees, NoCo Bike & Ped Collaborative, and members of the public.

TIMELINE

The 2050 RTP started in October 2021 and is anticipated to be adopted by September 2023.

We want to hear from you throughout the project, so keep an eye out on the project website for opportunities to get involved.

TRANSIT OVERVIEW

Transit in the North Front Range is operated at the municipal and State level. Over the last decade, the transit agencies have worked together to create regional services, tying together Larimer and Weld counties.

TRENDS

Below are fixed-route trends between 2015 and 2019 based on data from the National Transit Database (NTD). Ridership across all three agencies has generally increased when compared to the number of hours the buses run. Operating expense per revenue hour has also generally increased, albeit at less of a consistent rate. Agency information is on the reverse side of this fact sheet.

2015	2019

Appendix B / Community Resources Inventory

As mentioned throughout this plan, establishing and maintaining relationships with community partners across the region is crucial for the NFRMPO and its member agencies to understand which transportation issues are most important to community members. This directory is meant to be an introductory list of community-based organizations, committees, boards, commissions and other groups that local and regional staff and/or planning partners should be aware of, build relationships with, and inform of relevant planning initiatives.

Agencies striving for stronger relationships may benefit from organizing these directories into relationship maps to better visualize how various partners, points of contact, or projects within or adjacent to your networks are connected with one another, with tools such as Kumu.

Please reach out to NFRMPO staff with other suggestions for community partners. The NFRMPO does not endorse any of the following boards and commissions, community-based organizations, transportation providers, or supportive services. These are meant as suggestions of community partners to ensure outreach is robust, inclusive, and equitable.

Please refer to the Table of Contents below to help identify potential community partners.
