Chair & Vice Chair Elections

Hull announced that it is time to elect chair and vice chair positions for the LCMC. Hull said that the current chair and vice chair, Kelly and Robinson, respectively, have served a year and can continue to serve another year if they want. Kelly and Robinson asked the group if someone wanted to take over their positions; no one wanted to at this time. It was then motioned by Edgley and seconded by Cunningham, and the motion was passed.

Mobility Program Updates

RideNoCo Updates

Joyner gave the RideNoCo call center and website stats for the year to date. She compared them to the 2025 YTD numbers, and the calls have increased 56%, and website visits increased 109%. She briefly discussed the new RideNoCo website coming soon and how that should make an impact on call center numbers. Joyner shared the RideNoCo and the NFRMPO upcoming events through July 2026.

Staff Activities Since Last Meeting

Trujillo-Martinez provided an update on the new RideNoCo website, which is in the final stages of development and expected to soft launch soon. She discussed efforts to diversify funding for the RideNoCo program beyond traditional Section 5310 federal grants, with an increased focus on the health impacts of transportation. She also described an innovation grant awarded to RideNoCo by the Colorado Office of eHealth Innovation (OeHI). The grant will support technology upgrades for the call center, including electronic referrals from care providers, tools to identify the most appropriate transportation provider for each individual, and the ability to electronically transmit referrals. The goal is to create a closed-loop referral system that allows the RideNoCo call center to track whether rides are successfully fulfilled.

Hull gave the Mobility Action Plan Update (MAP) and discussed that the purpose of the plan is to provide goals and actionable items that correspond with the Coordinated Plan. He said that with the changes to the mobility team, the plan has not been updated since 2023, and that the team will be working on the updates internally and bring those updates and changes to the NCMC meeting in May. He said that the team is hoping to streamline the document for an Executive Summary, One-Pager.

Hull summarized the 2023 Mobility Action Plan (MAP) goals and progress to date and reviewed the 2026 MAP goal areas, key components, and success measures. Discussion focused on the 2026 priority area of driver capacity, training, and safety, including how agencies track safety performance and complaint trends. Members shared current approaches, including passenger, rider, and volunteer driver surveys, and SAINT’s onboarding process, which includes a driver manual, safety guidance, and a driver application. Trujillo-Martinez discussed potential opportunities for RideNoCo to support SAINT in collecting safety-related feedback and reporting to advance shared safety goals.

Mathis raised concerns regarding regional connectivity between Loveland and Fort Collins, noting challenges for individuals with disabilities and caregivers traveling to medical facilities. He also identified ongoing difficulties securing transportation to and from the Fort Collins/Loveland Airport and noted potential impacts should commercial service resume.

Hull reported that the MPO will review and update the Articles of Association in 2026 to incorporate the Mobility Committee bylaws. Topics for consideration include whether to consolidate the three mobility committees, adjust meeting frequency, confirm meeting locations, and determine an approach for chair/vice-chair representation by county.

Climate Smart Future Ready Overview and Update

Pruess provided an introduction and overview of the Climate Smart Future Ready Plan. She outlined objectives to improve air quality and human health, increase community resiliency, and improve equity and quality of life in Larimer County. She noted a goal to exceed a 45% Greenhouse Gas (GHG) reduction, with a target of 60% by 2030. Pruess reported that more than fifty community partnerships—spanning municipalities, the private and nonprofit sectors, and academic partners—support the plan’s implementation and help identify needs. She reviewed milestones and completed actions, and summarized the cost-benefit analysis, noting that each dollar invested has generated an estimated $2.50–$7.00 in community benefit. She identified the three largest contributors to the cost-benefit results as building code updates, preservation of open land and natural resources, and wildfire mitigation and forest restoration. Pruess also shared dashboard snapshots showing strategy details and implementation status.

Pruess discussed examples of plan impacts, including Larimer County mattress recycling, infrastructure, and adoption efforts for electric vehicles and e-bikes, and available resources for additional information. She emphasized prioritizing outcomes over actions and the importance of the ability to measure the outcomes.

Mobility Case Study

Joyner presented a case study involving an individual over the age of sixty who uses an electric wheelchair and resides in Fort Collins. Some of his medical appointments require sedation due to severe PTSD, and he needs door-through-door transportation assistance because he cannot walk long distances. Although appropriate transportation resources were provided, he is unable to pay for services and was denied Medicaid. Joyner referred him to Disabled Resources and Foothills Gateway and later confirmed that he already has established case managers with both agencies. The individual continues to contact RideNoCo seeking assistance that exceeds the capacity of the call center. Koltz suggested contacting ARC of Larimer County for additional support. Mathis recommended developing and sharing a consolidated list of case managers, and Trujillo-Martinez agreed, adding that including the types of services provided would be beneficial. Further discussion included reaching out to UCHHealth to determine whether a case manager could assist with transportation support through Carepool.
