Transfort & COLT Updates

Kelly reported that the Transfort optimization plan is going well. They are still working to update routes around CSU for students. The Dial-A- Ride program in Ft. Collins now has a web portal for scheduling rides. More information can be found on the website.

SAINT Updates

Robinston announced that SAINT is now offering medical rides between Ft. Collins and Loveland. Rides need to be scheduled for 2 weeks in advance of the appointment. If a ride is not available within 1 week of the appointment, the individual will be contacted.

Approval of July Meeting's Minutes

Penfold made a motion, seconded by Roberts, to approve July 28, 2026, meeting minutes; the motion passed unanimously.

Mobility Program Updates:

RideNoCo Data & Outreach Updates

Joyner presented RideNoCo year-to-date call, email, website, and outreach information. RideNoCo reported 426 calls and emails and 10,826 website visits for 2026 year-to-date. Compared with January 1 through October 16, 2025, when RideNoCo recorded 286 calls and 5,623 website visits, this represents increases of 49 percent in calls and emails and 93 percent in website visits.

October outreach activities included Tour de Corgi in Fort Collins; The Weld Senior Symposium presentation in Greeley; an Aging and Disabilities Resource Center presentation; Weld Project Connect in Greeley; Open Streets in Fort Collins; and the Envision Health and Wellness Fair in Evans. The Wildcraft Farmers Market event at Foothills Mall in Fort Collins is on November 14.

Presentations

Larimer County Office on Aging Presentation

Limoges, Office on Aging Program Coordinator, and Alt, Director of Region 2A, presented on behalf of the Office of Aging. LCOA is the Area Agency on Aging for Larimer County and serves adults age 60 and older, adults living with disabilities, and caregivers. The office provides direct services, funds community partners, and supports innovation and advocacy to address community needs.

Services and resources highlighted included:
Options counseling to help adults age 60 and older plan for the future and understand long-term care communities and supports. The Long-Term Care Ombudsman Program, which protects the rights of residents of assisted living residences and nursing facilities and assists residents in speaking up when they are treated unfairly. Application assistance for adults age 60 and older applying for programs such as Long-Term Care Medicaid and the Medicare Savings Program. Information and assistance with navigating housing, medical, support group, and other community resources, including the Answers on Aging Resource Guide in English and Spanish. Individual voucher programs, including in-home service and chore vouchers, to help older adults remain safe in their homes. Family caregiver support, including respite vouchers, grandfamily respite vouchers, caregiver consultations, classes, and resources. Coordination of federally and state-funded services that provide healthy meals, including home-delivered and community meals, transportation, and legal services for older adults. The Aging and Disability Resource Center is a source of information about long-term services and support options, including counseling, application assistance, transition services, voucher programs, caregiver support, and community resource navigation.
LCOA may be reached by phone or text at 970-498-7750 or by email at aging@larimer.gov. Spanish-language assistance is available.

Partnership for Age-Friendly Communities Presentation

Wygmans, Executive Director of the Partnership for Age-Friendly Communities in Larimer County (PAFC), provided an overview of PAFC's vision, mission, organizational approach, priority areas, partnerships, and current initiatives.

PAFC described its role as a convener, incubator, and think tank. Its work centers on bringing partners and community members together, exploring systemic challenges, testing innovative ideas, supporting community-led solutions, launching pilot projects, and scaling resources that help people thrive as they age. PAFC emphasized a systemic, grassroots approach that allows the organization to test, learn, and adapt around changing community needs.

PAFC organizes its work through four priority groups:

Housing: advocacy for housing initiatives that benefit people across the lifespan; updates to the Larimer County Manufactured Home Resident Handbook; support for the Design 2030 initiative; and outreach related to senior-friendly rental practices, accessibility considerations, and home modifications.

Health and Wellness: an evidence-based healthy-aging book list; artificial intelligence training for community members and caregivers to strengthen information and referral skills; and development of a high-school career and technical education curriculum related to long-term care careers.

Mobility and Access: continued partnership with the North Front Range Metropolitan Planning Organization and RideNoCo to help people, particularly older adults and individuals with disabilities, find safe, affordable, and reliable transportation options, while assessing additional initiatives aligned with PAFC's mission and community impact.

Culture of Aging: the Graceful Aging and Empowered Aging blogs; the Tech Buddy Program, which offers one-on-one technology support for older adults; and virtual Lunch and Learn sessions on practical topics.

PAFC also highlighted its partnership with Colorado State University, including Intergenerational Conversations and Game Night, the GenHERous program, communications and branding projects, website improvements, an artificial intelligence pilot for information and referral, and surveys of volunteers and participants. Additional launched projects include Sound Affects; the Toy, Game, and Puzzle Library; and A Little Help Northern Colorado.
